

Q: Is it possible to submit one project application while being part of a different project at the same time?

A: Yes, this is possible. When the successful project applications were selected and we see an overlap between two groups, we will contact the teams individually. You can then decide which team to be part of. You can also send in not only one application but also two applications, if you want.

Q: How many project teams will be selected? How many participants can participate in the lab in Germany and Korea?

A: We will have 20 people in Berlin and 20 people in South Korea, who are participating in the EPRIE Labs. Each time 5 people can participate in the project teams, but they don't have to be the same people each time. Different people can work on the project in Germany and South Korea. Overall, we will fund 4 project ideas. So, four teams with five people each will be selected.

Q: How many participants may we have in each team?

A: We have five people in each project team. More people can work in the team or can contribute to the project, e.g. online, but just five people for each project team will be present in Germany and South Korea.

Q: How do you choose the four teams?

A: We will select the best ideas based on the quality and feasibility. It will be selected by Korea Verband and the Robert Bosch Stiftung.

Q: What is the relationship between the two EPRIE labs?

A: We have two EPRIE Labs and the first EPRIE Lab will be focused on the collection of ideas. We already ask for a project idea in the application form and also a finance plan. In the first EPRIE Lab we will improve the project idea, think about what you might need for the implementation, we will prepare the project and do brainstorming. You will also receive a feedback from the others. You will proceed with your project in between the two EPRIE Labs. During the second EPRIE Lab we work more on the implementation of your project idea and towards a final documentation or a potential outcome in the end. After that you will still have time to add final touches to your project.

Q: Is it possible to participate in only one EPRIE Lab, as some can only participate in one EPRIE Lab?

A: Yes, this is possible. We cannot coordinate for you who is part of which EPRIE Lab. We want you to coordinate which of your team members can participate in which country. You should find out who can do it in summer or fall and also who can travel to South Korea or to Germany, as that is not possible to everyone.

Q: Are the 5,000 Euro for all four projects or will every project receive 5,000 Euro?

A: Overall we have 20,000 Euro for all the projects and each Project Team will receive 5,000 Euro. For the project implementation, we are totally aware that some projects might be a little bit more cost intensive. Then it is possible to receive more than the 5,000 Euro. But that's only possible if other projects need less money, and that's we have to decide together during the first EPRIE Lab. Please plan your project to maximum 5,000 Euro for the application.

Q: Do you invite speakers and specialists?

A: We want to invite trainers or coaches for you to support you during your project. That will be our task. We want to give you support for your finance plan, for the project management and project implementation. If you need specialists for your project, e.g. certain speakers that should be invited for interviews, they should be invited by you. You should suggest to invite these speakers.
